

North Korea makes cable trays

Article Overview

North Korea manufactures and supplies a variety of cable trays, including ladder, perforated, and solid-bottom types, primarily for industrial and commercial applications.

Overview

Cable trays in North Korea are used to support and organize electrical cables, ensuring safety, reducing fire hazards, and facilitating maintenance in industrial, commercial, and infrastructure projects . They are available in multiple types such as ladder, perforated, and solid-bottom trays, and are made from materials like galvanized steel, stainless steel, and other corrosion-resistant metals to suit different environmental conditions .

Local Manufacturing

North Korea has several recognized manufacturers of cable trays. Cable House, established in 1983, is a notable supplier providing a wide range of cable management products including cable trays, hose clamps, cable ties, and industrial connectors. They offer customized solutions and emphasize product durability, reliability, and long service life . Other local factories specialize in stainless steel mesh cable trays, producing modular and industrial solutions for various applications .
