

Ranking of Large-Span Cable Tray Manufacturers

Article Overview

Leading manufacturers of large-span cable trays include PohlCon and OBO, offering wide-span systems suitable for industrial, tunnel, and power plant applications.

Key Manufacturers and Offerings

PohlCon specializes in wide-span cable ladders and trays designed for industrial halls, production facilities, power plants, and tunnel construction. Their systems allow large distances to be spanned effortlessly while maintaining flexibility, reliability, and safety. PohlCon provides a variety of materials and surface finishes, making their cable trays suitable for both indoor and outdoor applications. Their product range includes cable trays, mesh cable trays, cable ladders, vertical ladders, floor ducts, cable clamps, rigid conduits, and system-specific accessories for complete cable management solutions. OBO offers wide-span cable trays designed for industrial installations, providing robust support for control and power cables. Their systems are engineered to handle large cable loads over extended spans, ensuring structural integrity and ease of installation. OBO emphasizes modularity and compatibility with accessories, covers, and support systems, making their trays adaptable to complex layouts and demanding environments.

Technical Considerations

When selecting large-span cable trays, consider the following:...
