

Router fiber optic cable red light

Article Overview

A red light on your fiber optic router indicates a loss of signal or connectivity issue, often caused by cable damage, loose connections, ISP outages, or router malfunctions.

Common Causes

- Loss of Signal (LOS): The red light usually signals that your router cannot communicate with your Internet Service Provider (ISP) due to a loss of signal .
- Fiber Optic Cable Damage: Physical cuts, bends, or kinks in the fiber optic cable can disrupt the signal .
- Loose or Improper Connections: If the fiber optic cable or other cables are not securely connected to the WAN/ONT port, the red light may appear .
- ISP Service Outage: Maintenance, technical issues, or local outages can cause the red light to appear .
- Router or ONT Malfunction: Hardware issues, firmware bugs, or overheating can trigger a red light .
- Power Issues: Fluctuations in power supply may prevent the router from functioning properly .

Troubleshooting Steps

- Check for ISP Outages: Visit your ISP's website or social media pages to confirm if there is a service disruption in your area .
- Inspect the Fiber Optic Cable: Look for visible damage, ensure the cable is properly seated in the WAN/ONT port, and avoid sharp bends .
- Reboot the Router: Turn off the router, unplug it for 30-60 seconds, then power it back on. This clears temporary glitches and refreshes the connection ....
